Focus on learning outcomes that describe what learners are able to do after completing a program or course, which are dictated by its outcomes. These outcomes are measurable and directly address the achievement of Program Educational Objectives, which are developed with input from stakeholders or constituents represented by curriculum designers, parents, alumni, and industrial representatives.